Catalyst Ranked as a top E-Discovery Provider by the New York Law Journal

Over 2,000 Legal Professionals vote for best legal services vendors in the New York area

DENVER—October 11, 2010—Catalyst Repository Systems, Inc., (www.catalystsecure.com), a pioneer in providing hosted document repositories for e-discovery and other complex legal matters, today announced it has been recognized as a top e-discovery provider in the New York Law Journal Ranking published this month. The first annual ranking is based on a popular vote of over 2,000 NYLJ legal professionals in the New York legal community and was conducted via online ballot.

“It’s an honor to be recognized by the New York legal professionals as a top E-Discovery Provider,” said John Tredennick, Founder and CEO of Catalyst. “The New York legal market is the biggest and most demanding in the world. To be recognized throughout the Empire State as a Top E-Discovery Provider is a tremendous honor. My sincere thanks to the Editors of the Journal and to the people who voted for our products and services.”

For over a decade, Catalyst has helped corporations and counsel manage e-discovery and work together on complex legal matters. Their secure, grid-based systems deliver the power to handle the largest matters in the world—from multi-language litigation to multi-party regulatory investigations. The company’s flagship product, Catalyst CR, is a hosted search, analytics and review platform for litigation support, regulatory compliance and other document-intensive matters. The powerful combination of the Catalyst CR technology, service and industry partnerships has allowed the company to provide exceptional e-discovery support for the legal market in New York.
